Economic Handbook of the Pacific Area. Edited by FREDERICK V. FIELD. Probably about 375 pages; price $4.00. To be published about May 1, 1934.

A first attempt to set forth a comprehensive summary of financial, trade, and production information, from authoritative sources, for the whole Pacific area; arranged for ready reference.

Problems of the Pacific, 1933. Edited by BRUNO LASKER and W. L. HOLLAND. Probably about 500 pages, $5.00. To be published about May 15, 1934.

Ten chapters and nine selected documents summarizing the Fifth Biennial Conference of the Institute, held at Banff, Canada, in August, 1933, on the general subject of Economic Conflict and Control in the Pacific.

Modern Samoa. By FELIX M. KEESING. 506 pp. Price $4.00.

A study of dependency government and of racial and cultural change—part of a larger study of native peoples of the Pacific, to provide a background for the study of administrative and educational policies.

Foreign Investments in China. By C. F. REMER. 708 pp. Price, $5.00.

The first complete and authoritative analysis of foreign investments in China and that country's international economic and financial position; findings of an I.P.R. research project in which a number of its National Councils have taken part.

The Peopling of Australia, Second Series. Edited by F. W. EGLESTON and others. 327 pp. Price $2.00.

Eleven studies by outstanding Australian authorities on the historical and psychological background, the economic limitations, and the political and practical methods of Australia's handling of her population problems.

China's Geographic Foundations. By GEORGE B. CRESSEY. 436 pp. Price $4.00.

A survey of the land and the people based on extensive original research and widely acknowledged as an indispensable new source book to provide a basis for teaching and more specialized studies.

Facing Labor Issues in China. By LOWE CHUAN-HUA. Preliminary Edition. 211 pp. Paper-bound, $.85.

Recommended by the Chinese Minister of Industry and by Julean Arnold, American Commercial Attache, as a fresh and constructive description and history of China's industrial organization, the labor movement, and industrial welfare legislation and administration.

Australia as Producer and Trader, 1920-1932. By NANCY WINDETT. 320 pp. Price $3.50.

A detailed analysis of Australia's post-war experience as a producer for world trade, and the direction of this trade under a system of controls, with special reference to countries in the Pacific.

Trade and Tariffs of Certain Pacific Countries. By PHILIP G. WRIGHT. Preliminary Edition. 279 pp. Paper bound, price $3.00.

A convenient summary and analysis of the trade between Australia, Canada, China, Japan, New Zealand, the Philippine Islands, and the United States—with additional information about the Pacific trade of the USSR and the United Kingdom.

Symposium on Chinese Culture. Edited by SOPHIA H. CHEN ZEN. New and revised edition. 316 pp. Price $2.00.

An admirable sample of contemporary Chinese scholarship, with contributions by Hu Shih, V. K. Ting, W. H. Wong, Tsai Yuan-P'ei, and fifteen other leaders of China's scientific, artistic, and literary revival.

From Headhunters to Citizens. By FELIX M. KEESING. Probably about 200 pp. Price $2.00. To be published about April 1, 1934.

A study of mountain folk in the northern Philippines—one of a projected series of special studies of the adaptation of native life to the demands of modern civilization and world relations in the Pacific.

ECONOMIC HANDBOOK OF THE PACIFIC AREA

Edited by FREDERICK V. FIELD

650 pages, charts and tables

Price $5.00

A comprehensive reference work on economic activity in sixteen countries and dependencies of the Pacific area, compiled in response to an urgent demand expressed by members of the Institute both in the East and in the West, "a product of unusually successful international collaboration," writes a Japanese member; "an up to date and effective presentation of the most authentic information available," says a former chairman of the Pacific Council; "conducive to a closer international relations because of better mutual understanding," comments a prominent Chinese Government official; "a fundamental source book for all students, journalists, business men and statesmen interested in this part of the world," says an American member.

Price $5.00

"Problems of the Pacific for 1933 sets a new standard for the Institute of Pacific Relations. Previous volumes have merely attempted to summarize the discussion with the introduction of some material from the data papers. In the present volume, however, materials from the data papers and round-table comments are skillfully introduced with sufficient critical comment to give the reader an adequate view of the best learning on the subject considered. . . . There is a wealth of detailed factual material of importance to all men of affairs."
